

Business Owners Turn to Virtual Office Services in Slow Economy

Toronto virtual office space rentals reduce the amount of capital risk on testing new international markets

Toronto, Canada (MarketWire) March 25, 2008 – More and more companies looking to establish an international presence are taking advantage of Toronto virtual office space, says Telsec, a leading provider of Toronto executive offices, office space and virtual offices.

“Toronto is recognized worldwide as Canada’s major business capital, and many international companies looking to expand choose to rent office space with us,” said Brian Miles, owner of Telsec. “We offer great prices on our Toronto office space, with our virtual office program starting at just $30 per month, making it less of a risk for businesses to try out their company in the Toronto market.”

Toronto is a leading test market internationally because of its reputation as a continental gateway and a crossroads for the world, ranking alongside economic powerhouses such as New York City and Chicago.

“Telsec’s goal is to achieve maximum productivity with a minimum of operating expenses for our clients, so we offer the largest selection of team environments and office space layouts in Toronto for large teams or groups at the most competitive rates,” said Miles. “With the convenience and location of Toronto, plus the low costs associated with renting our Toronto executive offices, we do a lot of business with international companies looking to expand into Toronto as well as capitalists starting new businesses.”

Telsec provides executive offices, virtual offices (mail service and/or telephone answering), furnished offices, Toronto office space, meeting rooms, training rooms and more to allow business owners to concentrate on their companies 100% while Telsec takes care of the rest.
